

Emperor William's Cards.
Each year Emperor William orders from his stationer 30,000 visiting cards. Those which the latter has just supplied his imperial patron for the new year differ from all previous productions even to the point of absurdity. The card, which is of "bristol glass," quite as thick as cardboard, is about a foot long by four inches wide. Engraved upon this formidable placard is simply the word "William" in very large gothic letters, and beneath, in somewhat smaller characters, is "Emperor of Germany and King of Prussia."

Revised at $30,000 offered.
A wealthy lady lost a watch containing jewels worth $150,000, and offered a reward of $40,000. The loss of health is far more serious, and yet it can easily be recovered. A little money invested in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will restore strength, purify the blood, regulate the bowels and help the stomach to properly digest food.

Grafting the English Walnut.
A correspondent from Dover, Delaware, desires to know whether any one has attempted to graft the English walnut on the black walnut or butternut. If successful many a grove of black walnuts could be turned into great profit.
It is said that in the vicinity of Homestead, Florida, large plantations are being made of the English walnut. These plantations have not yet come into bearing, and the healthy, vigorous growth is all that can be desired.—Mechanics Monthly.

Baltimore & Ohio.
From time to time articles appear in various papers about the so-called "Hill control" of Baltimore & Ohio, together with exhaustive details of various struggles which are supposed to be in progress between Mr. Hill and other people in the Baltimore & Ohio board. The details of these struggles are very interesting, but are open to the criticism that they have no existence in fact. The play of the matter is, first, that Mr. Hill does not control Baltimore & Ohio, nor has he at any time expressed any desire or taken any steps in that direction; second, that there has at no time been any differences of opinion between Mr. Hill and the Baltimore & Ohio people with regard to a selection of general manager, the selection of Mr. Underwood being satisfactory to everybody; and third, that the delay in regard to Mr. Underwood's acceptance of the general management of Baltimore & Ohio was due to matters connected with the Soo Line more than anything else.

It is pretty well understood here that Mr. Hill was invited to interest himself in Baltimore & Ohio, on the theory that he could be of great service to the property as an adviser, and to this end he, with some of his friends, purchased a substantial interest in the preferred stock of the company. This interest is nowhere near a controlling interest, but is still very large. It may be said without fear of contradiction, that there is no harmony in Baltimore & Ohio circles from top to bottom.

"Of what use is our independence," asked the Cuban in despair. "Why? Down the street there is a Spanish soldier with all sorts of valuables, and the Americans won't allow us to touch it."

What Is Being Worn in the Streets and in the Home—The Long Coat Is the Leader Among Smart Wraps—Toilette de Dinner.

Oh No! We Never Mention Her. (An Old Favorite.)
Oh, no! we never mention her. Her name is never heard. My lips are now forbidden to speak. That once familiar word, "From sport to sport they hurry me, To banish my regret; And when they win a smile from me, They think that I forget."

They bid me seek in change of scene The charms that others see; But were I in a foreign land, They'd find no change in me. The time that I behold no more The valley where we met; I do not see the hawthorn tree— But how can I forget.

They tell me she is happy now— The gayest of the gay; They hint that she forgets me now, But heed not what they say; Like me perhaps she struggles with Each feeling of regret; But if she loves, as I have loved, She never can forget.

Modes of the Winter.
The long coat is one of the features of the season. It appears in a variety of designs, but in all it has an economic as well as an aesthetic value, for no known garment is so successful a shield to old clothes. Like charity, it covers a multitude of sins, and under your smart long coat you may wear a brook of almost any degree of shabbiness, provided, of course, that you are careful to keep your smart long coat well fastened all the time. One seen lately was sufficiently pretty to excuse its being worn very often, indeed. Of bright blue smooth-faced cloth, it was trimmed with bright green velvet, applied in broad, flat bands, and headed by a fantastic design in black braiding. This edge the double cape, the high-pointed collar and the jabot-like revers. It also forms a finish to the coat where it fastens at one side of the front and it appears at the hem. The bell cuffs make use of it. A narrow waistcoat and stock revealed by the revers, all of the velvet, unrelieved by any braiding. One big ornamental button is placed at the waist where the garment fastens. The hat is of blue velvet, with black plumes and green chiffon.

A second long coat is in fawn-colored cloth and sable. Its special distinctions are an overlapping series of narrow-shaped folds at the garment's hem, the same effect being reproduced in the cape, and the long, stole-like ends of sable that grace the front. The coat is tight-fitting, both front and back. A high, rolling collar, faced with seal-brown velvet, has an inner facing of sable, the fur extending in the long stole-like ends before mentioned. At the bust is a big bowknot of the velvet. The sleeves bell exaggeratedly at the wrists. The ends of the stole-like pieces of fur have a fringe of sable tails. The toque, of brown velvet and white lace, is faced with sable. A sable muff completes the costume.

A novelty in the cape line is of cloth and caracul. The caracul forms the front of the garment, being so arranged as to give a waistcoat effect, while the cloth appears to be an over-cape. The edge of the fur is deeply scalloped, the fronts lapping over each other, and the whole fitting up snugly at the figure. The cloth is draped over the shoulders in three broad, flat plaits, thanks to which the fur in the back has the effect of a gump. The cloth is bright green in color. At the waist, in front, the cloth is confined by a huge buckle. At the hem the cloth is elaborately embroidered in black. The high collar, scalloped at the edge and of the caracul, is faced with ermine.

Some Park Facts.
To Try Out Lard—Always buy the "leaf," the fat around the kidneys. Cut into small pieces, say an inch square or half the size of an egg, and put it on to cook, adding one-quarter of a cupful of water. Stir from time to time, and when the shrunken pieces begin to turn yellow strain off nearly all the lard fat into jars or pails, let the remainder cook until the scraps are crisp and will yield nothing more on pressure, when strain. The last pouring will not make so white lard as the first, but will be equally good if care is taken not to burn.

Bacon.—There are two ways of frying bacon, neither can be called best, individual preference deciding the matter. One method is to cut the bacon very thin, and crisp it quickly in a hissing hot spider; the other is to cut the slices one-quarter of an inch thick, put them in a cool spider and fry them slowly until they have a half transparent appearance.

Roast Pork.—The loin is best for roasting. It should be well rubbed muslin or not embroidered with white and red chenille spots; tuft of black ostrich tips nodding on each shoulder. Velvet skirt with oval train partly veiled with the new peplum skirt, in yellow China crepe or mirror velvet, shaded white and red. It is slashed on either side up to the hip, where it is finished off with a cluster of loops and ends in black velvet ribbon attached with a diamond clasp or lace rosette. Shield-like tablier exquisitely embroidered with a bold, striking design wrought in pearls, garnets and spangles; delicate trail in keeping carried down the curved part of the pointed bodice. A string of pearls defines the broad belt and another one with dangling drops encircles the throat. In the hair a red egret and diamond and pearl star relieve the Greek knot of dark hair.

Necklaces of all sorts are worn with the low-cut gowns. The strings of colored glass beads have found many admirers, and I notice that they are being worn with day as well as evening gowns. The little thin gold "baby chains" with a locket or pendant are taken out from among the keepers or supplied by the jeweler. London fashion writers tell us that an English woman feels that her evening toilet is incomplete without a pair of the hand some bracelets. These bracelets at their best are unbecoming things when worn at the wrist, and the American woman is sensible enough to follow no fashion but the prettiest. The wearing of a black velvet hand held by a jeweled clasp and worn half way between the elbow and shoulder is a fetching fashion and one much followed. And another quaint style is the narrow black velvet ribbon about the neck, from which hangs a turquoise blue-enamelled locket. The black velvet makes the white neck and arm look whiter.—St. Joseph Daily News.

Visiter for Women.
This charming figure from the Designer illustrates a stylish and comfortable garment for street wear, developed in green cloth, trimmed with black silk braid and heavier fur. The cloak is fitted by shoulder, under-arm side-back, and center-back seams, also single bust-darts, and closes in double-breasted style. The extensions of the center-back and side-back gores below the waist-line are laid in plaits underneath. Pocket flaps are attached to the fronts below the waist-line concealing the pockets. Three graduated circular cape collars are attached to the neck edge. A large, one-piece fur collar forms a comfortable finish. The sleeve is a modish two-piece leg-o-mutton model, the fullness of the upper portion being disposed in four small darts at the top.

This cloak may be stylishly developed in velvet, ladies'-cloth, cheviot, tweed, muller, broadcloth or keiser, and it may be trimmed with braid, gimp, passementerie, or fur.—Copyright, 1895, by Standard Fashion Company.

who are regarded more as a pair of puppets in a Punch and Judy show than two thinking beings who are assuming the most solemn responsibilities and are repeating the most sacred vows their lips will ever utter.

Toilette de Dinner.
Low bodice, tight-fitting at the back, and artistically draped in front in soft waves in wood violet satin, set off with a drooping fringe of black or iridescent jet, arranged with a festoon by means of a diamond clasp on both sides and a jeweled one in the center. Short puffed sleeves and folded kerchief draperies in yellow silk.

There are six of them and all are decorated.

The opportunity for making an excursion to the pyramids of Egypt presented itself recently, and I eagerly embraced the chance to visit this interesting and little-known relic of the past, says a writer in the London Graphic. The pyramids lie clustered together on the western side of Giza, a few miles from the city of Cairo. This mountain, though of no great height, is a landmark for many a mile around, and from Mena's camp the pyramids themselves were plainly visible above the belt of palm trees on the opposite bank of the Nile.

These pyramids are six in number, and with one exception are in a wonderfully perfect state of preservation. None of them, however, is of any such vast dimensions as the pyramid at Giza, the highest probably not exceeding sixty feet. They appear to have been built in groups of three, placed at right angles to one another. The stones which form the outer facing in each case measure three feet long by one and one-half feet in depth, and are not very closely fitted to one another. These pyramids have never been explored. What varied treasures may they not contain? What priceless relics of antiquity may not be found in their sepulchral chambers?

When we first approached the pyramids, we were met by a crowd of the solid rock. It contains three chambers, the central one being the largest, with the two smaller ones on each side of it. In each of the walls are richly decorated with hieroglyphs, and in some places the original coloring remains. It is, however, extremely difficult to trace the details of the carvings, for the wild bees have found their convenient projections on which to build their little nests.

"What," thundered Mr. Meekton's wife, "do you think of this man who married three wives, and then wants to come to Egypt?"

"Well, Henrietta," he answered, as he gloomily looked at the scene, "I don't blame him for wanting to get away from home and come to Washington for a little while."—Washington Star.

After Effects of the GRIP

Grip is a treacherous disease. You think it is cured and the slightest cold brings on a relapse.

Its victims are always left in a weakened condition—blood impure and impoverished; nerves shattered. Pneumonia, heart disease and nervous prostration are often the result.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will drive every trace of the poisonous germs from the system, build up and enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves. A trial will prove this. Read the evidence:

When the grip last visited this section Herman H. Evelyn, of W. H. Evelyn & Co., a well-known contractor and builder, was one of the victims, and he has since been troubled with the after-effects of the disease. A year ago his health began to fail, and he was obliged to discontinue work. That he lives today is almost a miracle. He says: "I was troubled with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and a general debility. My back also pained me severely. I tried one doctor after another and numerous remedies suggested by my friends, but without apparent benefit, and began to give up hope. Then I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in a local paper, and after investigation decided to give them a trial."

"After using the first box I felt wonderfully relieved and was able to resume my work on the road to recovery. I bought two more boxes and continued taking them. After taking four boxes of the Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People I can restore to good health. I feel like a new man, and having the will and energy of my former days returned, I am capable of transacting business with the greatest ease."

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a wonderful medicine and any one suffering from the after-effects of grip will find that these pills are the specific." H. H. Evelyn, Mr. Evelyn will gladly answer any inquiry regarding this if stamps be enclosed.—From the Chicago Democrat, Jefferson City, Mo.

Look for the full name on the package. At druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y. 50c per box. 6 boxes $2.50.
